genthau Plan

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALBANY, Oct. 19—(INS)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey prepared today for a second campaign invasion of Pennsylvania after telling a nationwide radio audience that failure of the Roosevelt administration to have ready an intelligent program for dealing with invaded Germany as cost American lives.

The Republican Presidential nominee, whose speech in Pittsburgh tomorrow night is expected to deal with labor problems and the Political Action Committee, delivered in New York City last night a smashing attack upon President Roosevelt's foreign policy.

He said it consisted largely of personal, secret diplomacy," and that Mr. Roosevelt has studiously ignored his State and War Departments and substituted his own will or the "informed judgment of the American people."

Addressing more than 2,000 persons at the New York Herald-Tribune Forum, Gov. Dewey lashed out at the now scrapped Morgenthau plan to make defeated Germany an agricultural nation, virtually without industry.

"On the basis of our Treasury Department's ill-conceived proposals," said the Governor, "the German people were told that a program of destruction was in store for them if they surrender. Almost overnight, the moral of the German people seemed changed. They are fighting with the frenzy of despair. We are paying in blood for our failure to have ready an intelligent program for dealing with invaded Germany."

The Republican nominee "called the roll" of several nations to support his argument that President Roosevelt's foreign policy "gives cause for great anxiety." He charged that:

1. President undertook to dispose of the fate of Poland "personally and secretly with Mr. Stalin," leaving the Secretary of State behind and taking with him Harry Hopkins, "who acquired his training in foreign affairs in running the WPA."

2. The President has not yet, despite his talks with Stalin, "even secured Russian recognition of those whom we consider to be the true government of Poland."

3. The United States has sent a "batch of alphabetical agencies" to Italy, the people of which "deserve something better than the improvised, inefficient administration which personal New Deal government is giving them."

4. The Roosevelt administration lacked until now an official plan for dealing with invaded Germany

GERMANS SET TOWN ABLAZE

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, France—German forces in France, reeling back under an American Seventh Army assault in the direction of Strasbourg, have set the French town of Baccarat in the Vosges area ablaze and are evacuating civilians, headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower revealed today.

The Germans, an official spokesman said, put the torch to Baccarat as a result of the American advance which has reached northeast of Glonville despite stubborn Nazi resistance.

ANNOUNCE "REINVASION" OF PHILIPPINES

American "reinvasion" of the Philippines was announced by the Japanese Domei agency today.

United States warships have steamed into Leyte Gulf in the east-central Philippines, Tokyo said, and landings have already been made on the small island of Sulu.

China-based American aircraft as well as "all naval forces in the Pacific" except Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's Task Force 58 are participating, Domei said, according to FCC, and added that certain fleet units are under command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Bishop Fred P. Corson To Speak At Methodist Rally

A great religious mass meeting, with 55 Methodist churches participating, will be held on Tuesday next, at Frankford Avenue Methodist Church, Philadelphia.

This will be sponsored by the Lower North District Group of the Philadelphia Conference Laymen's Association with the president Harold E. Hopkins, presiding. This group has been responsible for several large mass meetings since its organization and this promises to be no exception. A great gathering is expected.

The first session will start at 2:30 p. m., with outstanding laymen and ministers of the North District participating. Special music, both vocal and instrumental, will be a feature. There will be a Fellowship dinner at 5:45, which will be prepared by women of the church.

The second session will begin at 7:30 with congregational singing led by Raymond Lyons. Various members of the Philadelphia conference will bring greetings. Special music will be provided by the choir of the Cheltenham Methodist Church and the Harmony Trumpeters.

The speaker will be the newly-elected bishop of the Philadelphia Conference, Bishop Fred Pierce Corson. While Bishop Corson is no stranger to members of Philadelphia Methodism, this is his first appearance in the North District since his election to the episcopacy. Bishop Corson was formerly president of Dickinson College, and has a wealth of experience.

More than 80 people inspected the Child Care Center at Bristol Terrace on Tuesday evening, according to an announcement by Mrs. Sarah Baker Buckley, who is in charge of the activities at the center where 40 children are now on the active roll.

Motion picture film entitled "Child Care," and describing the nursery at the Bok School, Philadelphia, was shown. W. H. Alexander, of Fleetwings, Inc., showed the film.

A social time followed, with the visitors and teachers talking over work at the center. Cup cakes and coffee were served.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Some Political Facts

Washington, Oct. 17. SOME TIME ago the Roosevelt campaign managers were greatly perturbed over the probability that a light registration and vote would be bad for the fourth-term prospects. There were predictions that though 49,500,000 votes were cast four years ago not more than 43,000,000, or at best 45,000,000, would be polled this time. And it was charged that the wicked Republicans were trying to keep the vote down, which seemed a singularly silly idea for a party whose conviction is that the popular trend is toward it and not against.

NOW, it develops that far from being light, the registration is unusually heavy; that in most of the important electoral States the voters have registered quite beyond expectation and that the Republicans, far from discouraging voters from registering, have done everything they knew how to get them on the books. Certainly, they would have been crazy not to. At any rate the registration, particularly in New York, has ended the talk about apathy and a light vote. There isn't any apathy and the vote easily may go above 50,000,000. This ought to please the fourth-termers, but they do not seem as joyous about it as one might think.

"CLEAR EVERYTHING WITH SIDNEY"

NUMBER FIVE
IS THE PAC PLAN LEGAL?
(Doylestown Intelligencer)

Much of the confusion in public thinking about Sidney Hillman and his Political Action Committees rises out of differences of opinion over the legality of certain acts now being committed by PAC, and other activities contemplated or threatened.

These opinions divide roughly into four contentions:
A. That PAC activities are entirely legal.
B. That these activities, while intended to be prevented by Federal statutes, escape illegality by taking advantage of "loopholes" in the law.

C. That these activities, while perhaps not strictly legal, are so high-minded in purpose as to warrant leniency in enforcement—that "the end justifies the means."

D. That PAC's methods are expressly forbidden by Federal statutes, and that only laxity of enforcement permits their continued use.

It may be stated at once that there can be no final answer on the question until the facts have been determined by a jury and the laws passed upon by the courts. This does not appear likely to happen between now and election day.

In the meantime, it is inescapable that the American electorate make its own non-professional judgment on the legal points, which form one of the key campaign issues.

The reason why this responsibility is upon the public's shoulders is that President Roosevelt's chief law-enforcement officer, Attorney General Biddle, has made up his own mind that no laws are being broken. His opinion, however, is strongly challenged by other legal minds.

General Biddle's opinion cannot be examined in detail for the reason that, broadly speaking, he has expressed only his conclusions, and not the reasoning by which he reached them.

It might as well be stated frankly that General Biddle is in a hot corner.

If he prosecutes PAC, then he, a member of the Roosevelt cabinet, is endangering the President's reelection; he, a Democrat, is upsetting the arrangement between New Dealers, the big-city Democratic bosses, and Sidney Hillman by which the Fourth Term is being sought.

Moreover, as an at-will appointee of the President, he is subject to the opinions and policies of the administration. The significance of the cordial relations between "the chief" and "Sidney" cannot escape his consideration.

Further, if he steps out of line in administrative policy, the President has the power of replacing him on short notice.

But the other horn of the dilemma is equally painful. General Biddle is under oath of office which requires him

Police Claim Woman Has Given Them A Detailed
Statement of Guilt

A colored woman who police say admits she is the mother of twins, a boy and a girl, whose lifeless bodies were found in the canal at Yardley, is being held by police for a hearing this afternoon.

Mrs. Minerva Daniels, 24, Bell avenue, Yardley, was brought to the Bristol police station yesterday morning by Charles A. Jones, State Trooper of the South Langhorne barracks, and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo.

Mrs. Daniels, according to the police, has given a detailed statement of the births and the subsequent dumping of the bodies into the canal. She is the mother of a two-year-old son, Charles, Jr., who resides with her.

Through information obtained by State Trooper, Charles A. Jones, South Langhorne Barracks, he and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, went to the woman's home yesterday. They interviewed Mrs. Daniels and then brought her to Bristol where she made her statement, they say.

Assistant District Attorney, Willard Curtin, came to Bristol yesterday afternoon and prepared the information and attended to other legal details of the case.

The lifeless bodies of the twins of which Mrs. Daniels is alleged to have said she is the mother, were found floating in the canal at Yardley, on the morning of October 8th, shortly before noon.

The discovery of the one body was made at about 11:45 by Chris. Benson, Philadelphia, who was fishing in the canal. He saw the tiny body floating in the water, and a few minutes later saw the other floating nearby.

Wm. J. Murray, Aged 57,

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, Italy, Oct. 19—Private Maurice Venero of Bristol, Pa., has the hazardous task of maintaining signal construction for the 85th "Custer" Infantry Division on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

With other members of his unit he is called upon to lay endless miles of telephone wire regardless of weather conditions or enemy action. Among the many hazards are Nazi bombs, artillery barrages, strafing, snipers and cleverly concealed land mines.

Many of his fellow soldiers were former telephone and power-line construction men.

His wife, Mrs. Mary Venero, and son, Ralph, live at 510 Jefferson avenue, Bristol. His brother, Fred, is a sergeant with the army in France. Before the war, Maurice was a soapmaker.

THE TIMES APOLOGIZES FOR

F. D. R.

The New York Times has done a great service to the people of the United States by damming Franklin D. Roosevelt with faint praise—and pointing to the six basic and specific reasons why he has failed. Announcing in a long and almost apologetic editorial its support of the Fourth Term "with reluctance and strong misgivings" the leading Democratic newspaper of the nation pays the following amazing tribute to Governor Thomas E. Dewey:

"In some respects we believe that an Administration led by Mr. Dewey would do a better job in the domestic field than the three administrations led by Mr. Roosevelt."

"We think he would remove incompetent officials promptly, instead of keeping them at their desks, praising their accomplishments, and creating new agencies to do their work."

The Times explains that it supported Willie four years ago because of Roosevelt policies in his second term. Specifically it hits at (1) encouraging faith in the omnipotence of the state; (2) deficit financing; (3) seeking ever increasing executive power; (4) attempting to purge Congress; (5) attempting to pack the Supreme Court; and (6) administrative weakness.

"This was the period when the President's weakness in matters of administration began to reveal itself," says the Times, "in the quarrels of many of his chief lieutenants; quarrels which have continued to this day."

It isn't necessary to read any more of the editorial after this admission. Chiefly the Times is for Roosevelt because it thinks he has a sounder foreign policy than Dewey.

Voters logically will ask: "If he can't keep his own house in order on domestic issues, how can we expect FDR to execute and direct this nation's share in the much more complicated problems of foreign policy?"

By enumerating Mr. Roosevelt's domestic delinquencies, the Times has aided rather than detracted from Governor Dewey's presidential chances. The Times merely supports Republican contentions that it is TIME FOR A CHANGE. Needless to say, this editorial was not cleared with Franklin—to say nothing of Sidney.

to enforce not merely the letter but so far as possible the spirit of the law.

Should General Biddle's interpretation be too far out of line with that of other attorneys, should the courts later adopt a contrary interpretation, the future effect upon General Biddle's reputation for legal ability may easily be disastrous.

Even the fact that from the legal point of view General Biddle is in the unhappy position of passing not merely upon the law itself, which is one of his proper responsibilities, but also upon facts which should be determined by a jury, already is seriously embarrassing to him.

If the courts ultimately show the Attorney General to have made a mistake, he cannot hope to escape widespread censure. Moreover, in such a case he cannot hope to avoid the conclusion by numerous Americans that, if a conspiracy exists to evade the statutes and seize the election by illegal means, the Attorney General is at least tacitly playing an important role in that conspiracy.

General Biddle may easily be thought of as being torn between love and duty.

But his personal embarrassment does not change his obvious an unquestionable responsibility.

As a public officer, Attorney General Biddle's first duty is neither to the President nor to the Democratic Party, but to the American people.

He is under oath of office to do a specific task—a task perhaps best described by saying it is to help the President carry out the responsibility laid upon the Chief Executive by Section 3 of Article II of the Constitution:

A great hullabaloo was raised and the facts were almost completely obscured.

THE BASIS for most of these charges was the Republican opposition to the Roosevelt plan of having the whole business of the soldier vote handled entirely by the Federal Government. Under that plan the States would have been shoved aside and the soldiers would have had their vote limited to the candidates for President and Vice-President. They would have been unable to vote for State officers, which

PLOESTI RAIDS VITAL IN WINNING WAR

May Prove to Have Been The Blow That Finally Sank Hitler's Floundering Ship of State

By Frank Conniff

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE IN ITALY, Oct. 19—(INS)—When the last precincts have been heard from and the final results tallied, the Battle of Ploesti may prove to have been the blow that finally floundered Hitler's leaking ship of state.

Oil, the life blood that fuels every war machine, was the beckoning target that lured Major Gen. Nathan F. Twining's biggest bombers to Rumania since last April 5.

To staff tacticians of the 15th Air Force, the Ploesti "deal" does not constitute a series of isolated air raids, but an integrated campaign waged ruthlessly and relentlessly.

"It was something like Sherman's March to the Sea in the Civil War," said one officer, "We were striking at the enemy's ability to wage war, that was the strategic consideration behind our every move."

Probably 80,000 members of the American Air Force, including ground crews, participated in the four-months aerial assault that slashed off 88 per cent of Ploesti production.

By the time Russian soldiers

swarmed over the refineries in late August, the results of the cumulative American campaign were evident all over the Balkans in the number of first-class Nazi planes abandoned because of the lack of oil to move them to safer air strips.

The echoes of the Battle of Ploesti radiated to every battlefield in France. And in Italy, delighted 15th Air Force observers even saw Nazis using oxen to haul artillery because of the dearth of fuel.

The 15th Air Force paid a sobering price for its smashing success. Upwards of 3,000 airmen were lost over the target. More than 1,000 have already been repatriated from Bucharest, and hundreds more are expected to answer roll-calls before the war is over.

The mighty "Forts" pounded Ploesti in the teeth of the most concentrated flak barrage ever encountered.

"Ploesti was the greatest air battle of the air," said Gen. Twining. "We were attacking the most highly defended target in the world."

The Jerries had built more than 50 batteries embracing 283 light guns and 243 heavies, in the immediate vicinity of the 11 refineries which add up to the magical meaning of Ploesti.

The defenders learned at an early stage to screen the targets with dense smoke spires. Gun batteries and smoke squads were alerted while the American planes were winging over the Danube's famous "Iron Gate," 40 minutes flying time away.

Not only did American bombs place a constricting tourniquet on Nazi oil arteries, but the repeated attacks also began to have a paralyzing effect on the will-power of Ploesti employees. German overseers found themselves unable to keep the workmen at their benches.

Frequently as many as 700 bombers heaved their heaviest pitches at Ploesti on a single raid, and the usual attack seldom saw less than 350 of the 15th's biggest babies romping toward Rumania.

Ploesti today is a blackened, gutted memorial to the efficiency of American bombing, and an implicit warning to embryonic warlords that a democratic people can learn the savage ways of total war, if necessity arises.

When oil again begins to flow

from Ploesti pipes to the rest of Europe, it will be for purposes of peace and not to further the megalomaniac mirage of a certain paper hanger.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

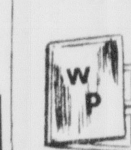

NO STAMPS are required for any of a wide collection of durable casual feminine footwear now being displayed in the Snellenburg Shoe Dept. The soles are wear-tested and flexible, of the new indoor-outdoor type. Styles fashioned of gabardine, cloth or corduroy. Black, brown, wine, rust, red, dark blue. For all ages wearing sizes 4 to 9. Mostly with smart, comfortable "wedgie" soles. Open or closed toes and backs. You'll like this collection! $3.35 to $5.95. (1st fl.)

FUEL OIL ECONOMY. This year there's a bottled, non-explosive fluid at 69c per quart which aids in reducing the surface tension of fuel oil and enables the burner to start more quickly. Mixture automatically cleans fuel pipe. A quart of fluid is added to twenty-five gallons of fuel oil. You will find this fluid—"Parfax"—in that really amazing Housefurnishings Department of the Snellenburg Store. Take time to explore all the Department's sections next shopping trip. (3rd fl.)

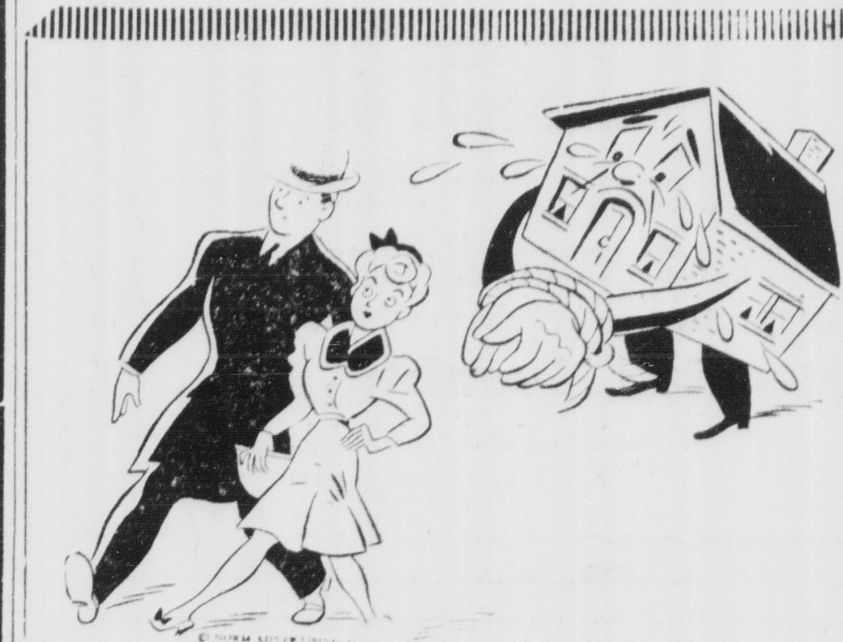

MIRRORS ARE LIKE gay laughter in a room, so the more the merrier! Especially do we need mirrors in winter to repeat light from the windows or glowing lamps, to give reflected movement. In brief, mirrors make a room come alive. Not necessarily expensive, they should yet be artistic. I have found a most striking group to meet requirements. Generous in size—30"x40"—of sparkling Pittsburgh plate glass, with back silvering guaranteed, these mirrors are set in handsome, decorator-approved classic gold frames. About four oblong designs. Used horizontally or vertically over mantels, sofas, chairs, chests, etc. They will make magnificent wedding and Christmas presents. Only $19.95 each. Snellenburg Mirror Dept. (4th fl.)

HANDY LABELS: Order them for gifts or your personal use. These tiny gummed labels, with a three-line name and address on each, come in packages of 500. Encased in small red or green folders of leatherette for carrying in purse or pocket. Moreover, the cases have personal monograms in gold! Opaque or transparent paper. Use on letters, documents, music, books, magazines, anything you wish to "brand." Fine for permanent set-up addresses! Orders delivered in three weeks. $1.35 a packet. Snellenburg Stationery Dept. (1st fl.)

P.S. Shop at this friendly store—Market from 11th to 12th, thru to 1125-29 Chestnut St., Phila. Or order by mail. Or 'phone free (5c, 10c and 15c out-of-town calls only.) Clippings appreciated. Penna. number, ENTerprise 10160; New Jersey, WX-1150. Cheerio! Faithfully, FAITH.

DON'T HANDCUFF YOUR HOME!

Neglected repairs are a handicap to the efficiency and comfort of your home! Attend to them NOW—before real winter weather sets in. If you're confused about shortages and government regulations, remember this: Order L-335 limits the sale of lumber only and you can still get many other materials: roofing - siding - insulation - paint - wallboard. So come in and let's talk things over. We'll help you find a way to make the repairs you need. And you can use our monthly payment plan to keep up your home.

Increasing use of the light metals, magnesium and aluminum, in airplane construction and other war industries is paralleled by a remarkable growth in the application of stainless steel to many new types of industrial and domestic equipment. This fact is peculiarly important in the industries of this Commonwealth, since Pennsylvania is the home of many important producers of the steel alloys and of the largest stainless steel company in America.

A rust resisting metal which would combine great hardness and toughness with a permanently bright surface was a goal long sought by the chemists of the 19th Century. When this problem was finally solved by the addition of chromium and other metals to iron, the world was presented with a new industrial material whose use is still in its infancy. Present day stainless alloys combine the strength and surface hardness which has made steel the most valuable metal known to man with brightness and beauty of surface and a resistance to the attacks of oxygen, even at high temperatures.

The war has greatly increased Pennsylvania's capacity for the production of this valuable metal. It has been vital in the airplane industry in the construction of apparatus for the manufacture of synthetic rubber and in the construction of corrosion-resisting oil-refining equipment and of railroad cars and trucks for the transportation of chemicals and other industrial products. It is likely that in the years to come in the home, office, and factory, this hard-bright, highly-polished material will add to the convenience and comforts of American life as never before. A recent publication by the State Planning Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce on "Light Metals and Stainless Steels" dwells on a number of new possibilities for the use of this typical Pennsylvania metal in supplying the needs of the postwar world.

Good Breakfast Vital To Everyone's Living

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
Home Economics Representative

Eat a good breakfast and start the day right. Every man, woman and child needs a good breakfast in order to do his best work, maintain health, and promote growth. Fruit, cereal, bread of some kind, beverage, eggs, bacon, ham, sausage, and scrapie are excellent foods for breakfast. The kind and the amount of food each person eats for the first meal of the day depends on his age and activity. Persons doing heavy manual work will require more food than those doing light work.

Fruit whets the appetite for the rest of the meal. Oranges, grapefruit, tomato juice or fresh fruit in season are especially good for breakfast. It has been found that in one community in Bucks County the children never eat fruit for breakfast, yet we know fruit is most important.

Ready-cooked or prepared cereals often are preferred for breakfasts on warm days while a hot cooked cereal usually is more appealing on cold days. Choose whole grain and enriched or restored cereals in order to get the extra

B vitamins and minerals they contain. An egg for breakfast is an easy way to get that one egg a day. Eggs, bacon, ham, sausage, or scrapie stay by a person and he doesn't get that mid-morning slump. Bread served plain or toast or as French or milk toast helps to provide a breakfast that furnishes its share of the day's food needs. Muffins or other hot breads give variety to the morning meal.

Milk in some form should be the breakfast beverage for children while adults may have milk, tea, or coffee.

Recent studies show that breakfast often is the poorest meal of the day and even may be omitted. Lack of appetite frequently is given as a reason for not eating breakfast. A good night's rest helps to encourage eating a good breakfast, and getting to bed a little earlier makes it easier to get up in time to eat breakfast.

Well-cooked and attractively served food will be an incentive for everyone to eat breakfast whether he's been in the habit of eating or skipping this early meal.

Are you starting your day the right way?

Good Accessories Have Place Among Furnishings

Although it is better to have too few furnishings instead of too many, a room that contains only floor coverings, furniture and curtains or draperies may seem bare and uninteresting. Accessories may be added to give a personal, finished touch.

Accessories must be chosen for their usefulness, beauty, distinction, and suitability. Knick-knacks or bric-a-brac may have some sentimental value but little or no merit in home furnishing.

Good books are interesting and colorful accessories when well-arranged on open shelves. A picture that is well-framed and chosen for its color, its artistic merit, and its style is another outstanding accessory. Clocks, bookends, mirrors, bowls, desk sets, lamps, textiles and wall hangings, pottery, china, or glass which are good in form, color, and texture are other accessories that will give a personal touch to a room.

One good accessory may be enough in a room. If some small objects are used, similar ones may be grouped to give a connected and pleasing effect. Homemakers who feel uncertain as to the value of and the arrangement of their accessories may consult Mrs. Mary Jacoby Fleetham, in the Agricultural Extension Office, 75 N. Main street, Doylestown, Pa.

STATE BRIEFS

GLENSIDE—(INS)—Paratrooper George P. Nawkins, former German prisoner of war, claims he sang his way to freedom. An Austrian guard, one-time opera singer, overheard the American cheering his buddy with a "Rigoletto" aria and joined them in escaping.

EASTON—(INS)—A permanent civic committee to cooperate with the juvenile court in studying child delinquency was suggested by Northampton County Judge William Barthold, as a possible means of reducing youthful crimes. By learning who contributes to youthful waywardness, it would be in a position to prevent many tragedies, he said.

PENBROOK—(INS)—The flag keeper for the memorial plot honoring the Veterans of Foreign Wars is an overseas veteran. He is John W. Garland, who served in the Spanish-American War under General MacArthur, father of the present Pacific commander.

ALTOONA—(INS)—Police were looking forward to November 1, as Halloween began two weeks ahead of schedule. Mischievous throwing of vegetables was reported by pedestrians, the majority of whom were women.

Today's Quiet Moment

*By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church
Eddington

O God our Father, after whom the whole family in heaven and on earth is named, who hath made of one blood all the nations and hath appointed unto them the bounds of their habitation, forgive us that we have so shamefully marred our human unity and have made of the earth which Thou didst create for peace a field of conflict and war. Thou art a God of righteousness. Cleanse us from all evil. Overthrow all falsehood and wrong. Purge away all hatreds and establish truth and peace among all men. Make peace, O God, make peace for we pray in the Name of the Prince of Peace even Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

KEYES, McDEVITT LEADING LOWER BUCKS PLAYERS

Two Bristol High School Boys Have High Averages

KEYES CROSSES 4 TIMES

McDevitt Has Hit Pay Dirt Three Times and Scored 23 Points

Howard Keyes and Joe McDevitt, of the Bristol High School team, are leading the Lower Bucks County scorers according to the averages tabulated up to Wednesday of this week.

Keyes, flashy colored wingman of the Sunnies, has crossed the final stripe four times and has an added point to his credit for a total of 25 points while Joe McDevitt, who is a fullback, has hit pay dirt three times and on five occasions has booted the extra point for a total of 23 points.

St. Francis and Langhorne are the only undefeated teams with the former winning three games and the latter, two. St. Francis has not been scored upon while Langhorne had a touchdowns tallied against them. In winning its last three games, Bristol has scored 84 points while with its defeat against Trenton Catholic and the thirteen points scored by Riverside makes 40 points for its opponents.

The showing of the Morrisville Bulldogs is a little disappointing. The Bulldogs have only scored 12 points in four games while their foes have rolled up a total of 50. Morrisville has won one game in four tries but its competition has been much stiffer than that of the other Lower Bucks County schools.

"Mike" DeRisi's Fallsington team has yet to score a point this season and has been beaten by Langhorne, Bensalem, and St. Francis. The two years layoff has hurt the Orange and Black.

Trapp, of Bensalem, has three touchdowns to his credit while Wayne Schneider, of Langhorne, has a pair of touchdowns and an extra point. The only safeties scored have been by Bristol and Langhorne.

The averages:

Priest is Killed in A Coupe-Truck Crash

as P. Clascick, 30, assistant rector of St. Robert's R. C. Church, Chester. Death was caused by a compound fracture of the skull.

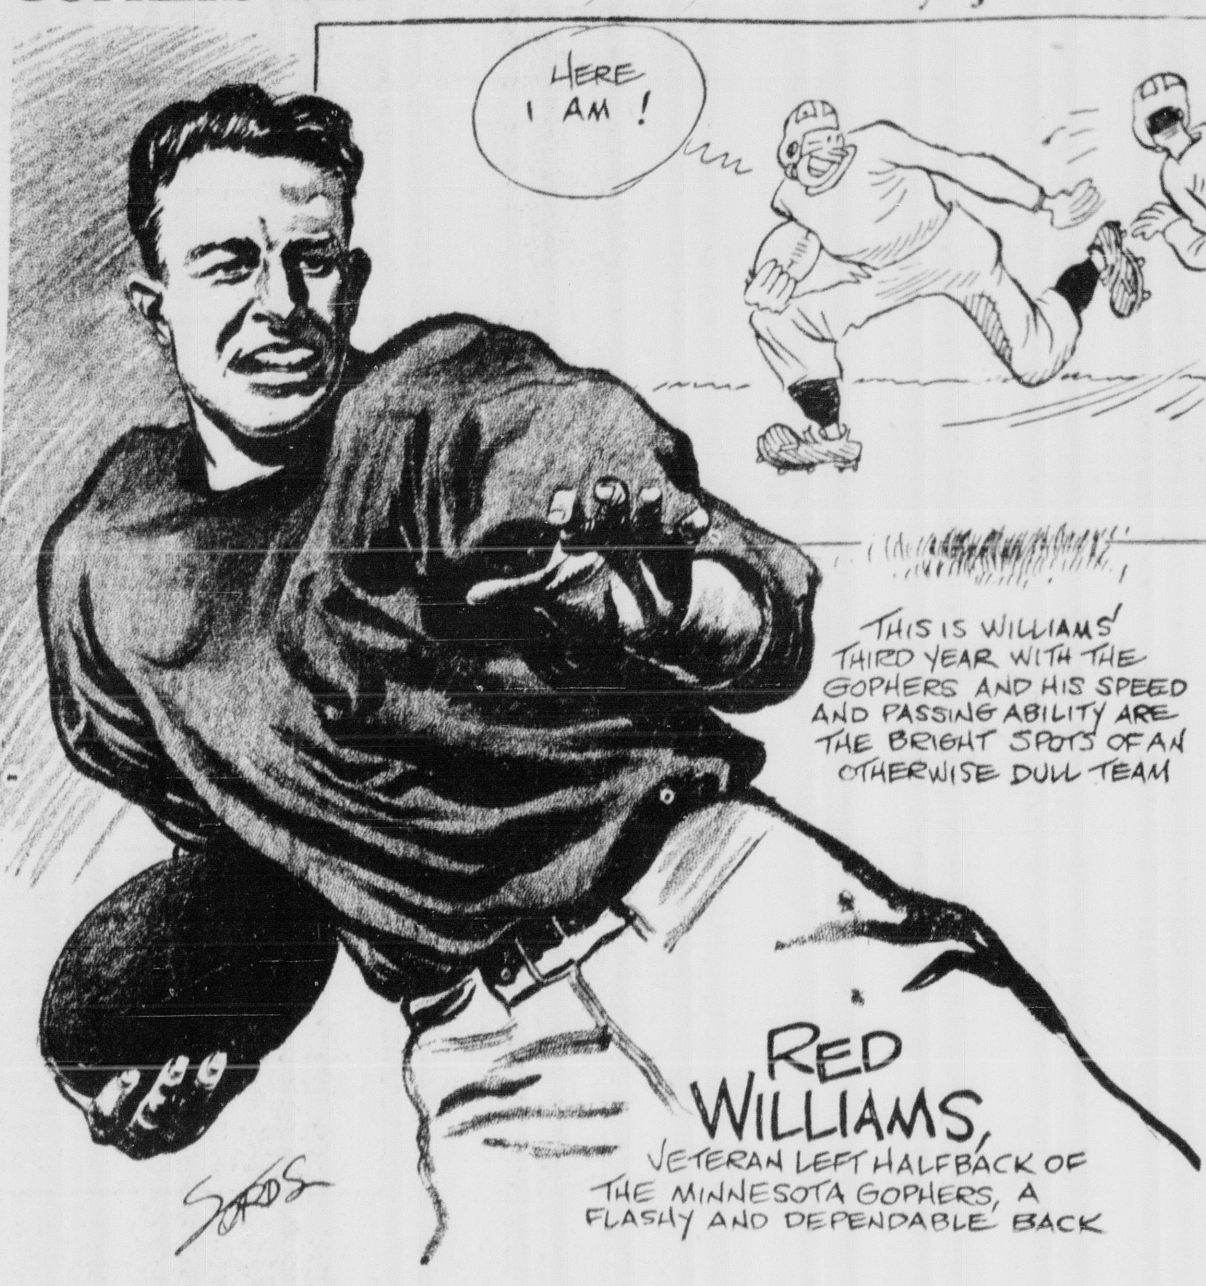

The car in which the priest was riding was operated. It is reported by police, by the Rev. Edward Murphy, 31, of W. Somerset street, Philadelphia. Rev. Murphy was removed to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, in the ambulance of Bucks County Rescue Squad, Croydon, his condition being considered serious.

The car operated by Rev. Murphy was being driven west on the highway, when it struck the left rear of a parked truck of the Pyramid Forwarding Co. The truck driver, George Fox, of N. Broad street, Philadelphia, was arrested on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, he being taken before Justice of the Peace Cooper at Langhorne. Investigating officers are Sawyer and Arner of South Langhorne barracks, Pennsylvania State Police.

The body of the Rev. Fr. Clascick was taken to the Horner funeral home at Langhorne. Bucks paved the way for advance of other Fifth Army units.

Particularly outstanding was the regiment's capture of Mt. Cianelli in 51 minutes after opening of the May 11 drive. Seizure of this height, almost unmentioned in news dispatches at the time, has been described as the most important action in the initial operations against the Gustav Line since it cleared the flank of the French Corps and enabled the French to crash through the bottleneck that was Castellforte.

After Cianelli came Hill 316, Mt. Ceracoli, Ventosa, Mt. Rotundo, Mt. Casareccio, Mt. Murino, Mt. Alto and Salvatore. Standing off fierce German counterattacks in a valley south of San Boggio, where supplies and ammunition were dropped from planes, the 350th drove on to capture Roccasecca dei Volsci, 10 miles ahead of Fifth Army lines.

Swarming down out of the mountains after Roccasecca, a motorized unit of the 350th was among first Allied troops to enter Rome late Sunday afternoon, June 4. North of Rome, the 350th was pulled out for rest and reorganization and returned to the lines July 7.

Assigned a corps objective in the Volterra area, key point in the Nazi line below the Arno River, the 350th attacked the night of July 8 and took, on schedule, the high ground to the west and north of the famed hilltop town, ancient stronghold of the Etruscans. From Volterra, the 350th drove steadily across rough and treacherous terrain to the Arno.

Trained originally in Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas under command of Col. Charles P. Lynch, the 350th came overseas late in 1943 and went into the lines in the Minutino sector in early March of this year. Shortly after taking up defensive positions, it equalled its World War I record of being the first unit of the 88th to repel a German thrust when it beat back a strong German daylight raiding party.

asked Council members whether Council would be willing to take over the maintenance of a recreational park if the project is developed. Council members agreed they would take the necessary action to see to it that extra land was obtained "providing the memorial field is developed."

There seems little doubt that Council will go along with the maintenance obligation once the park is fully developed. Mr. Atkinson told Council members that the other communities where there are recreational parks as memorials, Council in most instances maintains them.

The recreational park as suggested here, Mr. Atkinson pointed out, will maintain itself to a large extent, if it is developed along the line of night sports with an electrically lighted field, plus the development of daytime recreational facilities.

Hulmeville P. T. A. Plans For Several Activities

HULMEVILLE, Oct. 19—At the October meeting of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association held last evening in the school house, a new secretary was elected, and reports presented on the cafeteria, the scrap drive conducted by the association and pupils, and the recent sessions of the P. T. A. convention in Philadelphia.

A social period with showing of motion pictures and serving of refreshments followed.

Mrs. Herbert Rongley was the presiding officer, with the treasurer's report being given by N. P. Larson and the minutes being read by Miss Margaret Perry, secretary pro tem. Mrs. Helen Cramer was named secretary, succeeding Mrs. Dorothy Schuman Samuel. Mrs. Cramer is teaching grades six, seven and eight here.

Report of condition of the cafeteria funds and the food quantities was given by Mrs. Roger Burns. Members were informed that $32 remains in the cafeteria fund, with food on hand valued at $36.24, not including 350 quarts of fruit and vegetables which localities processed, and representing 300 hours of work. It was stated that an assistant has been secured for the cafeteria, but that no one has been secured to date to take charge of the cafeteria operation.

Frank Binder, principal, reported on results of the scrap drive to date, telling members that 3600 pounds of waste paper have been collected by pupils; and 600 pounds of tin cans.

Mrs. Walter Jackson reported on the possibility of securing storage closets for the cafeteria.

Mention was made of the joint program arranged by the Parent-Teacher Associations of Hulmeville, South Langhorne and Langhorne for November 9th, when Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D., and Mrs. Myers, editor-in-chief and associate editor, respectively, will speak. The program will be given at South Langhorne public school, with Mr. Larson of the local P. T. A. introducing the speakers. The subjects of the speakers will be "Our Families in These Times."

Reports on sessions of the state P. T. A. convention held in Philadelphia were given by Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Rongley, the former dealing mainly with an address given on physical fitness; and the latter with material presented on dental problems.

The ways and means committee will be in charge of a mistral show to be staged during mid-Winter. The committee includes: Thomas Yearling, Roger Burns, Mrs. Walter Haas and Mrs. Hilda Wunsch.

Mention was made of the fall assembly of Bucks County P. T. A. at Newtown high school tonight.

Attendance award was won by grades two and three of which Miss Perry is teacher. Nine more memberships were recorded last evening, new ones and renewals.

Three reels of motion pictures were shown by Mr. Binder, these including the "Yanks Invade the Marshall Islands"; a nature film entitled "Ants"; and a sports daredevil film. Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. A. Japchen and Mrs. Walter Jackson.

Sgt. William F. Widman, son of Mrs. Bernice Widman, Morrisville, was killed in France on September 17, according to an announcement from the War Department. No further details were given.

Sgt. Widman was stationed in Ireland for eight months before moving to France in July of this year. Inducted into the service on November 9, 1942, he received training at Fort McClellan, Ala., Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and Camp Forrest, Tenn. Before leaving for duty with the army, he was an employee of the Switlik Parachute Company, Trenton.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by a sister, Mary C., and a grandfather, Charles F. Widman.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, residing near Plumsteadville, has received a telegram from the War Department, announcing their son, Pfc. James Everett Snyder, aged 21, had been killed in action on September 24th.

The parents believe Snyder was killed in Italy, where he served with an infantry unit with General Mark Clark's Fifth Army.

Inducted on February 11, 1943, Snyder, who before entering the service was employed by the Hixson brothers, Doylestown roofers, received his training at Camp Howze, Texas, and Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

The young man left for foreign service in November, 1943, and for a time served in North Africa, from which place he was transferred to Italy the forepart of this year.

DEWEY BLAMES ROOSEVELT FOR HIS FOREIGN SECRECY

Says President's Policy Is Largely "Personal, Secret Diplomacy"

SPEAKS IN NEW YORK

G. O. P. Candidate Lashes Out at Scrapped Morgenthau Plan

ALBANY, Oct. 19.—(INS)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey prepared today for a second campaign invasion of Pennsylvania after telling a nationwide radio audience that failure of the Roosevelt administration to have ready an intelligent program for dealing with invaded Germany was cost American lives.

The Republican Presidential nominee, whose speech in Pittsburgh tomorrow night is expected to deal with labor problems and the Political Action Committee, delivered in New York City last night a smashing attack upon President Roosevelt's foreign policy.

He said it consisted largely of personal, secret diplomacy," and that Mr. Roosevelt had studiously ignored his State and War Departments and substituted his own will for the "informed judgment of the American people."

Addressing more than 2,000 persons at the New York Herald-Tribune Forum, Gov. Dewey lashed out at the now scrapped Morgenthau plan to make defeated Germany an agricultural nation, virtually without industry.

"On the basis of our Treasury Department's ill-conceived proposals," said the Governor, "the German people were told that a program of destruction was in store for them if they surrender. Almost overnight, the moral of the German people seemed changed. They are fighting with the frenzy of despair. We are paying in blood for our failure to have ready an intelligent program for dealing with invaded Germany."

The Republican nominee "called the roll" of several nations to support his argument that President Roosevelt's foreign policy "gives cause for great anxiety." He charged that:

1. President undertook to dispose of the fate of Poland "personally and secretly with Mr. Stalin," leaving the Secretary of State behind and taking with him Harry Hopkins, "who acquired his training in foreign affairs in running the WPA."

2. The President has not yet, despite his talks with Stalin, "even secured Russian recognition of those whom we consider to be the true government of Poland."

3. The United States has sent a "batch of alphabetical agencies" to Italy, the people of which "deserve something better than the improvised, inefficient administration which personal New Deal government is giving them."

4. The Roosevelt administration lacked until now an official plan for dealing with invaded Germany

Bishop Fred P. Corson To Speak At Methodist Rally

A great religious mass meeting, with 55 Methodist churches participating, will be held on Tuesday next at Frankford Avenue Methodist Church, Philadelphia.

This will be sponsored by the Lower North District Group of the Philadelphia Conference Laymen's Association with the president, Harold E. Hopkins, presiding. This group has been responsible for several large mass meetings since its organization and this promises to be no exception. A great gathering is expected.

The first session will start at 2.30 p. m., with outstanding laymen and ministers of the North District participating. Special music, both vocal and instrumental, will be a feature. There will be a Fellowship dinner at 5.45, which will be prepared by women of the church.

The second session will begin at 7.30 with congregational singing led by Raymond Lyons. Various members of the Philadelphia conference will bring greetings. Special music will be provided by the choir of the Cheltenham Methodist Church and the Harmony Trumpeters.

The speaker will be the newly-elected bishop of the Philadelphia Conference, Bishop Fred Pierce Corson. While Bishop Corson is no stranger to members of Philadelphia Methodism, this is his first appearance in the North District since his election to the episcopacy. Bishop Corson was formerly president of Dickinson College, and has a wealth of experience.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Some Political Facts

Washington, Oct. 17. SOME TIME ago the Roosevelt campaign managers were greatly perturbed over the probability that a light registration and vote would be bad for the fourth-term prospects. There were predictions that though 49,500,000 votes were cast four years ago not more than 43,000,000, or at best 45,000,000, would be polled this time. And it was charged that the wicked Republicans were trying to keep the vote down, which seemed a singularly silly idea for a party whose conviction is that the popular trend is toward it and not against.

—O—

NOW, it develops that far from being light, the registration is unusually heavy; that in most of the important electoral States the voters have registered quite beyond expectation and that the Republicans, far from discouraging voters from registering, have done everything they knew how to get them on the books. Certainly, they would have been crazy not to. At any rate the registration, particularly in New York, has ended the talk about apathy and a light vote. There isn't any apathy and the vote easily may go above 50,000,000. This ought to please the fourth-termers, but they do not seem as joyous about it as one might think.

—O—

ANOTHER thing about which alarm was voiced on the Roosevelt side concerned the vote of the men in the armed forces. The radical press in New York and the Hillman CIO-PAC publicity agents screamed that the Republican party had tried to disfranchise the soldiers, practically all of whom, it was claimed, would vote for the Commander in Chief if they could. Particularly, it was charged that Governor Dewey had signed a law under which the soldiers of his State were barred

"CLEAR EVERYTHING WITH SIDNEY"

NUMBER FIVE IS THE PAC PLAN LEGAL? (Doylestown Intelligencer)

Much of the confusion in public thinking about Sidney Hillman and his Political Action Committees rises out of differences of opinion over the legality of certain acts now being committed by PAC, and other activities contemplated or threatened.

These opinions divide roughly into four contentions:

A. That PAC activities are entirely legal.

B. That these activities, while intended to be prevented by Federal statutes, escape illegality by taking advantage of "loopholes" in the law.

C. That these activities, while perhaps not strictly legal, are so high-minded in purpose as to warrant leniency in enforcement—that "the end justifies the means."

D. That PAC's methods are expressly forbidden by Federal statutes, and that only laxity of enforcement permits their continued use.

It may be stated at once that there can be no final answer on the question until the facts have been determined by a jury and the laws passed upon by the courts. This does not appear likely to happen between now and election day.

In the meantime, it is inescapable that the American electorate make its own non-professional judgment on the legal points, which form one of the key campaign issues.

The reason why this responsibility is upon the public's shoulders is that President Roosevelt's chief law-enforcement officer, Attorney General Biddle, has made up his own mind that no laws are being broken. His opinion, however, is strongly challenged by other legal minds.

General Biddle's opinion cannot be examined in detail for the reason that, broadly speaking, he has expressed only his conclusions, and not the reasoning by which he reached them.

It might as well be stated frankly that General Biddle is in a hot corner.

If he prosecutes PAC, then he, a member of the Roosevelt cabinet, is endangering the President's reelection; he, a Democrat, is upsetting the arrangement between New Dealers, the big-city Democratic bosses, and Sidney Hillman by which the Fourth Term is being sought.

Moreover, as an at-will appointee of the President, he is subject to the opinions and policies of the administration. The significance of the cordial relations between "the chief" and "Sidney" cannot escape his consideration.

Further, if he steps out of line in administrative policy, the President has the power of replacing him on short notice.

But the other horn of the dilemma is equally painful. General Biddle is under oath of office which requires him

A colored woman who police say admits she is the mother of twins, a boy and a girl, whose lifeless bodies were found in the canal at Yardley, is being held by police for a hearing this afternoon.

Mrs. Minerva Daniels, 24, Bell avenue, Yardley, was brought to the Bristol police station yesterday morning by Charles A. Jones, State Trooper of the South Langhorne barracks, and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo.

Mrs. Daniels, according to the police, has given a detailed statement of the births and the subsequent dumping of the bodies into the canal. She is the mother of a two-year-old son, Charles, Jr., who resides with her.

Through information obtained by State Trooper, Charles A. Jones, South Langhorne Barracks, he and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, went to the woman's home yesterday. They interviewed Mrs. Daniels and then brought her to Bristol where she made her statement, they say.

Assistant District Attorney, Wilford Curtin, came to Bristol yesterday afternoon and prepared the information and attended to other legal details of the case.

The lifeless bodies of the twins of which Mrs. Daniels is alleged to have said she is the mother, were found floating in the canal at Yardley, on the morning of October 8th, shortly before noon.

The discovery of the one body was made at about 11.45 by Chris. Benson, Philadelphia, who was fishing in the canal. He saw the tiny body floating in the water, and a few minutes later saw the other floating nearby.

Wm. J. Murray, Aged 57, Dies at Otter St. Home

William J. Murray, 57, died at his Otter street home last night following a week of illness. He had resided here for most of his life-time, and was the son of the late Edward and Mary Ellen Murray.

Surviving Mr. Murray is a brother, Bernard J. Murray.

The deceased was a member of Goodwill ose, Hook & Ladder Co., No. 3.

The funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. Mary McCue, 328 Cedar street, on Saturday morning at nine o'clock, with Mass of Requiem in St. Mark's Church at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mark's Cemetery, with Robert C. Ruehl, funeral director, in charge. Friends may call Friday evening.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, Italy, Oct. 19.—Private Maurice Venero of Bristol, Pa., has the hazardous task of maintaining signal construction for the 35th "Custer" Infantry Division on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

With other members of his unit he is called upon to lay endless miles of telephone wire regardless of weather conditions or enemy action. Among the many hazards are Nazi bombs, artillery barrages, strafing, snipers and cleverly concealed land mines.

Many of his fellow soldiers were former telephone and power-line construction men.

His wife, Mrs. Mary Venero, and son, Ralph, live at 519 Jefferson avenue, Bristol. His brother, Fred, is a sergeant with the army in France. Before the war, Maurice was a soapmaker.

THE TIMES APOLOGIZES FOR F. D. R.

The New York Times has done a great service to the people of the United States by damming Franklin D. Roosevelt with faint praise—and pointing to the six basic and specific reasons why he has failed. Announcing in a long and almost apologetic editorial its support of the Fourth Term "with reluctance and strong misgivings," the leading Democratic newspaper of the nation pays the following amazing tribute to Governor Thomas E. Dewey:

"In some respects we believe that an Administration led by Mr. Dewey would do a better job in the domestic field than the three administrations led by Mr. Roosevelt."

"We think he would remove incompetent officials promptly, instead of keeping them at their desks, praising their accomplishments, and creating new agencies to do their work."

The Times explains that it supported Wilkie four years ago because of Roosevelt policies in his second term. Specifically it hits at (1) encouraging faith in the omnipotence of the state; (2) deficit financing; (3) seeking ever increasing executive power; (4) attempting to purge Congress; (5) attempting to pack the Supreme Court; and (6) administrative weakness.

"This was the period when the President's weakness in matters of administration began to reveal itself," says the Times, "in the quarrels of many of his chief lieutenants; quarrels which have continued to this day."

It isn't necessary to read any more of the editorial after this admission. Chiefly the Times is for Roosevelt because it thinks he has a sounder foreign policy than Dewey.

Voters logically will ask: "If he can't keep his own house in order on domestic issues, how can we expect FDR to execute and direct this nation's share in the much more complicated problems of foreign policy?"

By enumerating Mr. Roosevelt's domestic delinquencies, the Times has aided rather than detracted from Governor Dewey's presidential chances. The Times merely supports Republican contentions that it is TIME FOR A CHANGE. Needless to say, this editorial was not cleared with Franklin—to say nothing of Sidney.

HULMEVILLE

Mrs. Charles Thorpe, Sr. Charles Thorpe, Jr., and son "Jackie" visited relatives at Audubon Park, N. J., on Sunday.

Entertained on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Cox were Mr. and Mrs. William Kershaw and Mrs. Phillip Mann, her, of Bristol. On Tuesday Mrs. Cox was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cox, of Bristol.

Students at Hulmeville-Middle-town public school who are selling war stamps and bonds are endeavoring to make sales reach $1165 by a specified time, in order that they might thus provide money for the purchase of a jeep to be used in gaining victory for the United States. If they are successful they hope to have the pleasure of having a jeep displayed at the school house, with possibility of rides for the girls and boys. A stamp and bond booth has been erected by students in the class room of Miss Margaret Perry, this being attractively painted and suitably decorated in the national colors.

to enforce not merely the letter but so far as possible the spirit of the law.

Should General Biddle's interpretation be too far out of line with that of other attorneys, should the courts later adopt a contrary interpretation, the future effect upon General Biddle's reputation for legal ability may easily be disastrous.

Even the fact that from the legal point of view General Biddle is in the unhappy position of passing not merely upon the law itself, which is one of his proper responsibilities, but also upon facts which should be determined by a jury, already is seriously embarrassing to him.

If the courts ultimately show the Attorney General to have made a mistake, he cannot hope to escape widespread censure. Moreover, in such a case he cannot hope to avoid the conclusion by numerous Americans that, if a conspiracy exists to evade the statutes and seize the election by illegal means, the Attorney General is at least tacitly playing an important role in that conspiracy.

General Biddle may easily be thought of as being torn between love and duty.

But his personal embarrassment does not change his obvious and unquestionable responsibility.

As a public officer, Attorney General Biddle's first duty is neither to the President nor to the Democratic Party, but to the American people.

He is under oath of office to do a specific task—a task perhaps best described by saying it is to help the President carry out the responsibility laid upon the Chief Executive by Section 3 of Article II of the Constitution:

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

A great hullabaloo was raised and the facts were almost completely obscured.

THE BASIS for most of these charges was the Republican opposition to the Roosevelt plan of having the whole business of the soldier vote handled entirely by the Federal Government. Under that plan the States would have been shoved aside and the soldiers would have had their vote limited to the candidates for President and Vice-President. They would have been unable to vote for State officers, which suited the Administration but no one else. Anti-New Deal Democrats joined with the Republicans and the machinery for voting citizens in uniform here and abroad was put in the hands of the States, where the Constitution intended it to be. Ever since the political and journalistic supporters of the President have been shouting that because of the vicious and sinister Republicans "our fighting men" have been deprived of their "inalienable right of franchise." The noise on this line has been incessant and very loud. The Hillman committee and the Communists again have been particularly violent and vociferous.

BUT NOW it develops that so far from not being able to vote, the men in uniform are already voting in a proportion considerably larger than the civilian stay-at-homes have voted in the past. And especially in the State of New York, where the loudest outcry was made, the percentage is high. Both these things—the increased registration at home and the application and ballots received by the States from soldiers abroad—while they prove the baselessness of charges which the fourth-termers have been making, undoubtedly have raised the spirits of the Roosevelt managers, whose confidence had been somewhat diluted by evidences of the shift of the Negro vote in several of the large electoral States—including New York—and by the closeness of the recent polls.

THEY have not, however, discouraged the Republicans. On the contrary, the Dewey campaign manager, Mr. Brownell (an astute gentleman who deals in realities) interprets the larger registration as an indication of the continuation of a tide that has been running in the Republican direction for four years, and genuinely believes that Mr. Roosevelt will not get an overwhelming majority of the servicemen. Incidentally, it is interesting to note that Mr. Roosevelt's name appears three times on the New York ballot, while Governor Dewey's appears once. Mr. Dewey is on only as the nominee of the Republican party. Mr. Roosevelt appears, first, as the nominee of the Democratic party; second, as the nominee of the American Labor party, and, third, as the nominee of the "Liberal party." The American Labor party is Communist dominated, but run by Mr. Hillman, who insists he is no Communist. The "Liberal party" was the right wing of the American Labor party. It is composed of the minority faction which revolted against the Communist control of the ALP and has evolved a separate party of its own. It is just as strong for Mr. Roosevelt as the ALP but not quite so "advanced." Thus the President gets his name on the New York ballot three times to his opponent's one. How much of an advantage this remains to be seen—but it is some

"CALAMITY TOWN" by ELLERY QUEEN

© 1943 by LITTLE, BROWN &amp; CO., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SIND GATE

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

"Think of this: Since Jim couldn't be sure Rosemary had drunk that poisoned cocktail, 'Who could be sure?' asked Ellery.

Carter Bradford and Patricia Wright were pressing against the edge of the table, still, rigid, not breathing.

Mr. Queen shrugged. "And instantly—it was unbelievable, and it was sickening, and it was the only possible truth:

"Just one other person had opportunity to poison that cocktail, for just one other person handled it before it reached Rosemary!"

"Just one other person had motive to kill Rosemary and could have utilized the rat poison for murder which Jim had bought for exterminating purposes... perhaps at someone else's suggestion? Remember he went back to Myron Garback's pharmacy a second time for another tin, telling Garback he had 'mislaid' the first tin? How do you suppose that first tin came to be 'mislaid'? With what we now know, isn't it evident that it wasn't mislaid at all, but was stolen and stored away by the only other person in Jim's house with motive to kill Rosemary?"

Mr. Queen glanced at Patricia Wright and at once closed his eyes as if they pained him. Then he said through his teeth: "That person could only have been the one who actually handed Rosemary the cocktail on New Year's Eve."

Pat was frozen.

"I'm sorry," said Ellery, opening his eyes. "I'm terribly, terribly sorry. But it is as logical as death."

He said to her two aches, I had to tell you both."

Pat said faintly: "Not Nora, Oh, no, Nora."

Then she collapsed. They removed her to a couch in a room. Carter stood over her anxiously. Then he sat down and took her hand. Ellery saw her closed fingers go white with pressure. He turned away and strove over to the other side of the room to breathe a prayer. There was no sound at all, anywhere. Until he heard Pat murmur: "Ellery."

Queen turned around. She was sitting up on the couch again, both her hands in Carter Bradford's. Ellery guessed that in those few seconds of almost a great battle had been fought, and won. He drew a chair over to the couch and sat down facing them.

"Tell me the rest," said Pat steadily, her eyes on his. "Go on, Ellery. Tell me the rest."

"It doesn't make any difference, Patty darling," murmured Carter. "Oh, you know that. You know it."

"I know it, Cart."

"Whatever it was, darling—Nora was sick. I guess she was always a neurotic, always close to the borderline."

"Yes, Cart. Tell me the rest, Ellery."

"Pat, do you remember telling me about dropping in to Nora's a few days after Rosemary arrived, in early November, and finding Nora 'trapped in the serving pantry'?"

"You mean when Nora overheard Jim and Rosemary having an argument?"

"Yes. You said you came in at the tail end and didn't hear anything of consequence. And that Nora wouldn't tell you what she'd overheard. You said Nora had the same kind of look on her face as that day when those three letters tumbled out of the toxicology book."

"Yes..." said Pat.

"That must have been the turning point, Pat. That must have been the time when Nora learned the grim truth—by pure accident; she learned from the lips of Jim and Rosemary themselves that Rosemary wasn't his sister but his wife, that she herself was not legally married."

Ellery examined his hands. "It... unbalanced Nora. In a twinkling her whole world came tumbling down, and her mental and mental health with it. She faced a humiliation too sickening to be faced. And Nora was emotionally weakened by the strain of the years between Jim's sudden desertion and her marriage to him... Nora slipped over the line."

"Over the line," whispered Pat. "She planned to take revenge on the two people who, as her disturbed mind now saw it, had ruined her and ruined her life. She planned to kill Jim's first wife, the hated woman who called herself Rosemary. She planned to have Jim pay for the crime by using the very tools he'd manufactured for a similar purpose years before and which were now, as if by an act of providence, thrust into her hand. She must have worked it out slowly. But work it out she did."

Pat closed her eyes, and Carter kissed her hand.

"Knowing that we knew about the letters—you and I, Pat—Nora deliberately carried out the pattern of the three letters. She swallowed a mail dose of arsenic on Thanksgiving Day so that it would seem to us her following his suicide. And recall what she did immediately after showing symptoms of arsenic poisoning at the dinner table? She ran upstairs and gulped great quantities of milk of magnesia, an emergency antidote for arsenic poisoning."

"Patty, must I go on? Let Carter take you home—"

"I want the whole thing," said Pat. "Now!"

"Ellery went on in a low tone. 'Recall them? If Nora was as concerned over Jim's safety as she pretended, would she have left those three incriminating letters in her mailbox? Wouldn't any wife who felt as she claimed to feel about Jim have burned those letters instantly? But no—Nora saved them... Of course. She knew they would turn out to be evidence against Jim when he was arrested, and she made sure they survived to be used against him. As a matter of cold fact, how did Dakin eventually find them?'"

"Nora... Nora called our attention to them," said Carter feebly. "When she had hysterics and mentioned the letters, which we didn't even know about..."

"Mentioned?" cried Ellery. "Hysterics? My dear Bradford, that was acting! She pretended to be hysterical, she pretended that I had already told you about the letters! In saying so, she established the existence of the letters for your benefit. He stopped and fumbled for a cigarette."

"What else?" urged Pat in a shaky voice.

"Just one thing, Pat. Jim was the only one who knew the truth, although Robert Roberts may have guessed it. Jim knew he hadn't poisoned the cocktail, so he must have known only Nora could have."

"Yet Jim kept quiet. Do you see why I said before that Jim had a reason for murdering himself? It was his penance, his self-imposed punishment. For Jim felt himself to have been completely responsible for the tragedy in Nora's life—indeed, for driving her to murder."

Pat sank back on the couch to rest her head against the wall. Cart winced at the expression on her face. So he said, as if somehow it softened the blow and alleviated the pain: "But Queen, isn't it possible that Nora and Jim together, as accomplices?"

Ellery replied rapidly: "If they'd been accomplices, working together to rid themselves of Rosemary, would they have deliberately planned the crime in such a way that Jim, one of the accomplices, would turn out to be the only possible criminal?"

"After a long period of complete quiet, Pat turned to look at Cart; and, oddly, she was smiling. But it was the wispiest, lightest ghost of a smile."

"No," said Cart. "Don't say it. I won't hear it."

"But Cart, you don't know what I was going to say."

"I do! And it's an insult!"

"Here..." began Mr. Queen.

"If you think," snarled Cart, "that I would drink a story like this out for the edification of the Emmy DuPree of Wrightsville, then you're not the kind of woman I want to marry, Pat!"

"I couldn't marry you, Cart," murmured Pat in a stifled voice. "Not with Nora—not with my own sister—"

"She wasn't responsible! She was sick! Look, Pat—" Cart pulled her off the sofa and held her to him tightly. "Oh, darling, it isn't Nora, it isn't Jim, it isn't your father or mother or Lola or even you I'm really thinking of... It's the baby!"

"We're going to be married, and we're going to bury this case, adopt little Nora and make the whole thing sound like some impossible business out of a book—that's what we're going to do! Understand?"

"Yes, Cart," whispered Pat, as she closed her eyes and laid her cheek against his shoulder.

When Mr. Ellery Queen strolled out of the back room he was smiling, a little sadly. He slapped a ten-dollar bill down on the bar before Gus Olsen and said: "See what the folks in the back room will have, and keep the change. Good-bye, Gus. I've got to catch the train for New York."

Gus stared at the bill. "I ain't dreaming, am I? You ain't Santa Claus?"

"Not exactly, although I just presented two people with the gift of several pounds of baby, complete down to the last toenail."

"What is this?" demanded Gus. "Some kind of celebration?"

Mr. Queen winked gaily. "Of course! Hadn't you heard, Gus? Today is Mother's Day!"

PLOESTI RAIDS VITAL IN WINNING WAR

May Prove to Have Been The Blow That Finally Sank Hitler's Floundering Ship of State

By Frank Conniff

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
AN AMERICAN AIR BASE IN ITALY, Oct. 19.—(INS)—When the last precincts have been heard from and the final results tallied, the Battle of Ploesti may prove to have been the blow that finally floundered Hitler's leaking ship of state.

Oil, the life blood that fuels every war machine, was the beckoning target that lured Major Gen. Nathan F. Twining's biggest bombers to Rumania since last April 5.

To staff tacticians of the 15th Air Force, the Ploesti "deal" does not constitute a series of isolated raids, but an integrated campaign waged ruthlessly and relentlessly.

"It was something like Sherman's March to the Sea in the Civil War," said one officer. "We were striking the enemy's ability to wage war."

That was the strategic consideration behind our every move.

Probably 80,000 members of the American Air Force, including ground crews, participated in the four-months aerial assault that shattered 88 per cent of Ploesti production.

By the time Russian soldiers

swarmed over the refineries in late August, the results of the cumulative American campaign were evident all over the Balkans in the number of first-class Nazi planes abandoned because of the lack of oil to move them to safer air strips.

The echoes of the Battle of Ploesti radiated to every battlefield in France. And in Italy, delighted 15th Air Force observers even saw Nazis using oxen to haul artillery because of the dearth of fuel.

The 15th Air Force paid a sobering price for its smashing success. Upwards of 3,000 airmen were lost over the target. More than 1,000 have already been repatriated from Bucharest, and hundreds more are expected to answer roll-calls before the war is over.

The mighty "Forts" pounded Ploesti in the teeth of the most concentrated flak barrage ever encountered.

"Ploesti was the greatest air battle of the air," said Gen. Twining. "We were attacking the most highly defended target in the world."

The Jerries had built more than 50 batteries, embracing 283 light guns and 243 heavies, in the immediate vicinity of the 11 refineries.

les which add up to the magical meaning of Ploesti.

The defenders learned at an early stage to screen the targets with dense smoke spires. Gun batteries and smoke squads were alerted while the American planes were winging over the Danube's famous "Iron Gate," 40 minutes flying time away.

Not only did American bombs place a constricting tourniquet on Nazi oil arteries, but the repeated attacks also began to have a paralyzing effect on the will-power of Ploesti employees. German overseers found themselves unable to keep the workmen at their benches.

Frequently as many as 700 bombers heaved their heaviest pitches at Ploesti on a single raid, and the usual attack seldom saw less than 350 of the 15th's biggest babies romping toward Rumania.

Ploesti today is a blackened, gutted memorial to the efficiency of American bombing, and an implicit warning to embryonic warlords that a democratic people can learn the savage ways of total war, if necessity arises.

When oil again begins to flow

from Ploesti pipes to the rest of Europe, it will be for purposes of peace and not to further the megalomaniac mirage of a certain paper hanger.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

NO STAMPS are required for any of a wide collection of durable casual feminine footwear now being displayed in the Snellenburg Shoe Dept. The soles are wear-tested and flexible, the new indoor-outdoor type. Styles fashioned of gabardine, cloth or corduroy. Black, brown, wine, rust, red, dark blue. For all ages wearing sizes 4 to 9. Mostly with smart, comfortable "wedgie" soles. Open or closed toes and backs. You'll like this collection! $3.35 to $5.95. (1st fl.)

FUEL OIL ECONOMY. This year there's a bottled, non-explosive fluid at 69c per quart which aids in reducing the surface tension of fuel oil and enables the burner to start more quickly. Mixture automatically cleans fuel pipe. A quart of fluid is added to twenty-five gallons of fuel oil. You will find this fluid—"Parfax"—in that really amazing Housefurnishings Department of the Snellenburg Store. Take time to explore all the Department's sections next shopping trip. (3rd fl.)

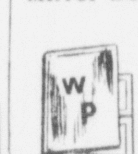

MIRRORS ARE LIKE gay laughter in a room, so the more the merrier! Especially do we need mirrors in winter—to repeat light from the windows or glowing lamps, to give reflected movement. In brief, mirrors make a room come alive. Not necessarily expensive, they should yet be artistic. I have found a most striking group to meet requirements. Generous in size—30"x40"—of sparkling Pittsburgh plate glass, with back silvering guaranteed. These mirrors are set in handsome, decorator-approved classic gold frames. About four oblong designs. Used horizontally or vertically over mantels, sofas, chairs, chests, etc. They will make magnificent wedding and Christmas presents. Only $19.95 each. Snellenburg Mirror Dept. (4th fl.)

HANDY LABELS! Order them for gifts or your personal use. These tiny gummed labels, with a three-line name and address on each, come in pack or green folders of leatherette for carrying in purse or pocket. Moreover, the cases have personal monograms in gold! Opaque or transparent paper. Use on letters, documents, music, books, magazines, anything you wish to "brand." Fine for permanent Service addresses! Orders delivered in three weeks. $1.35 a packet. Snellenburg Stationery Dept. (1st fl.)

SHE LIKES RAIN, does that girl who wears one of those "weather-sealed" raincoats that the Snellenburg "Teens" Dept. is selling at $5.95 and $7.95. Made along box lines, the raincoats slip over suits and sweaters and coats with ease. Natural or red. Inset sleeves, convertible collars, fly fronts, kick opening at back. I'd like one of these coats myself! (2nd fl.)

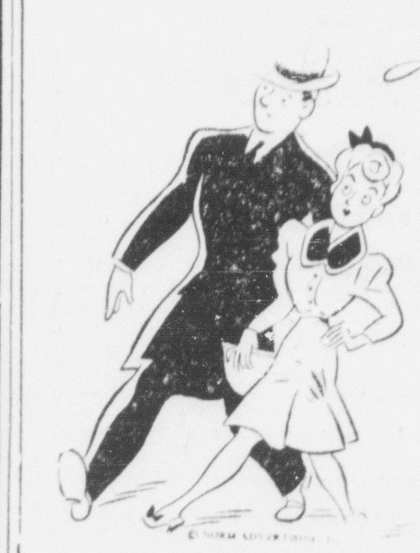

HANG-UP LAUNDRY RACK! Its a pippin. Heavily enameled wire. Six ways to hang it—on door top, shower rod, towel bar, basement pipes, tree branch, porch, etc. Movable when loaded. Two sizes. With six 2-ft. cross-pieces, $1.19. Folding type, 10 cross-pieces, $1.60. Perfect gift for engagement or baby showers. Most helpful item I've seen in a long time. Snellenburg Housefurnishings Dept. (3rd fl.)

P.S. Shop at this friendly store—Market from 11th to 12th, thru to 1125-29 Chestnut St., Phila. Or order by mail. Or 'phone free (5c, 10c and 15c out-of-town calls only.) Clippings appreciated. Penna. number, ENTERprise 10160; New Jersey, WX-1150. Cheerio! Faithfully, FAITH.

neglected repairs are a handicap to the efficiency and comfort of your home! Attend to them NOW—before real winter weather sets in. If you're confused about shortages and government regulations, remember this: Order L-335 limits the sale of lumber only and you can still get many other materials: roofing - siding - insulation - paint - wallboard. So come in and let's talk things over. We'll help you find a way to make the repairs you need. And you can use our monthly payment plan to keep up your home.

By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church
Eddington

O God our Father, after whom the whole family in heaven and on earth is named, who hath made of one blood all the nations and hath appointed unto them the bounds of their habitation, forgive us that we have so shamefully marred our human unity and have made of the earth which Thou didst create for peace a field of conflict and war. Thou art a God of righteousness. Cleanse us from all evil. Overthrow all falsehood and wrong. Purge away all hatreds and establish truth and peace among all men. Make peace, O God, make peace for we pray in the Name of the Prince of Peace even Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

KEYES, McDEVITT LEADING LOWER BUCKS PLAYERS

Two Bristol High School Boys Have High Averages

KEYES CROSSES 4 TIMES

McDevitt Has Hit Pay Dirt Three Times and Scored 23 Points

Howard Keyes and Joe McDevitt, of the Bristol High School team, are leading the Lower Bucks County scorers according to the averages tabulated up to Wednesday of this week.

Keyes, flashy colored wingman of the Bunnies, has crossed the final stripe four times and has an added point to his credit for a total of 25 points while Joe McDevitt, who is a fullback, has hit pay dirt three times and on five occasions has booted the extra point for a total of 23 points.

St. Francis and Langhorne are the only undefeated teams with the former winning three games and the latter, two. St. Francis has not been scored upon while Langhorne had a touchdown tallied against them. In winning its last three games, Bristol has scored 84 points while with its defeat against Trenton Catholic and the thirteen points scored by Riverside makes 40 points for its opponents.

The showing of the Morrisville Bulldogs is a little disappointing. The Bulldogs have only scored 12 points in four games while their foes have rolled up a total of 50. Morrisville has won one game in four tries but its competition has been much stiffer than that of the other Lower Bucks County schools.

"Mike" DeRisi's Fallington team has yet to score a point this season and has been beaten by Langhorne, Bensalem, and St. Francis. The two years layoff has hurt the Orange and Black.

Trapp, of Bensalem, has three touchdowns to his credit while Wayne Schneider, of Langhorne, has a pair of touchdowns and an extra point. The only safeties scored have been by Bristol and Langhorne.

The averages:

GOPHERS' BEST

By Jack Sords

County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, of Cornwells Heights, was called in the case.

Localites Fight In Hard-Driving Unit

paved the way for advance of other Fifth Army units.

Particularly outstanding was the regiment's capture of Mt. Cianelli in 51 minutes after opening of the May 11 drive. Seizure of this height, almost unmentioned in news dispatches at the time, has been described as the most important action in the initial operations against the Gustav Line since it cleared the flank of the French Corps and enabled the French to crash through the bottleneck that was Castellforte.

After Cianelli came Hill 316, Mt. Ceracoli, Ventosa, Mt. Rotundo, Mt. Casareccio, Mt. Marino, Mt. Alto and Salvatore. Standing off fierce German counterattacks in a valley south of San Boggio, where supplies and ammunition were dropped from planes, the 350th drove on to capture Roccasecca dei Volsci, 10 miles ahead of Fifth Army lines.

Swarming down out of the mountains after Roccasecca, a motorized unit of the 350th was among first Allied troops to enter Rome late Sunday afternoon, June 4. North of Rome, the 350th was pulled out for rest and reorganization and returned to the lines July 7.

Assigned a corps objective in the Volterra area, key point in the Nazi line below the Arno River, the 350th came overseas late in 1943 and took, on schedule, the high ground to the west and north of the famed hilltop town, ancient stronghold of the Etruscans. From Volterra the 350th drove steadily across rough and treacherous terrain to the Arno.

Trained originally in Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas under command of Col. Charles P. Lynch, the 350th came overseas late in 1943 and went into the lines in the Minuteman sector in early March of this year. Shortly after taking up defensive positions, it equalled its World War I record of being the first unit of the 88th to repel a German thrust when it beat back a strong German daylight raiding party.

Doylestown Council To Help War Memorial

asked Council members whether Council would be willing to take over the maintenance of a recreational park if the project is developed. Council members agreed they would take the necessary action to see to it that extra land was obtained "providing the memorial field is developed."

There seems little doubt that Council will go along with the maintenance obligation once the park is fully developed. Mr. Atkinson told Council members that in other communities where there are recreational parks as memorials, Council in most instances maintains them.

The recreational park as suggested here, Mr. Atkinson pointed out, will maintain itself to a large extent, if it is developed along the line of night sports with an electrically lighted field, plus the development of daytime recreational facilities.

Hulmeville P. T. A. Plans For Several Activities

HULMEVILLE, Oct. 19.—At the October meeting of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association held last evening in the school house, a new secretary was elected, and reports presented on the cafeteria, the scrap drive conducted by the association and pupils, and the recent sessions of the P. T. A. convention in Philadelphia.

A social period with showing of motion pictures and serving of refreshments followed. Mrs. Herbert Rongley was the presiding officer, with the treasurer's report being given by N. P. Larson and the minutes being read by Miss Margaret Perry, secretary pro tem. Mrs. Helen Cramer was named secretary, succeeding Mrs. Dorothy Schuman Samuel. Mrs. Cramer is teaching grades six, seven and eight here.

Report of condition of the cafeteria funds and the food quantities was given by Mrs. Roger Burns. Members were informed that $32 remains in the cafeteria fund, with food on hand valued at $36.24, not including 350 quarts of fruit and vegetables which localities processed, and representing 300 hours of work. It was stated that an assistant has been secured for the cafeteria, but that no one has been secured to date to take charge of the cafeteria operation.

Frank Binder, principal, reported on results of the scrap drive to date, telling members that 3600 pounds of waste paper have been collected by pupils, and 600 pounds of tin cans.

Mrs. Walter Jackson reported on the possibility of securing storage closets for the cafeteria.

Mention was made of the joint program arranged by the Parent-Teacher Associations of Hulmeville, South Langhorne and Langhorne for November 9th, when Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D., and Mrs. Myers, editor-in-chief and associate editor, respectively, will speak. The program will be given at South Langhorne public school, with Mr. Larson of the local P. T. A. introducing the speakers. The subjects of the speakers will be "Our Families in These Times."

Reports on sessions of the state P. T. A. convention held in Philadelphia were given by Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Rongley, the former dealing mainly with an address given on physical fitness; and the latter with material presented on dental problems.

The ways and means committee will be in charge of a mistral show to be staged during mid-Winter. The committee includes: Thomas Vealring, Roger Burns, Mrs. Walter Haas and Mrs. Hilda Wunsch.

Mention was made of the fall assembly of Bucks County P. T. A. at Newtown high school tonight. Attendance award was won by grades two and three of which Miss Perry is teacher. Nine more memberships were recorded last evening, new ones and renewals.

Three reels of motion pictures were shown by Mr. Binder, these including the "Yanks Invade the Marshall Islands"; a nature film entitled "Ants"; and a sports daredevil film. Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. A. Japchen and Mrs. Walter Jackson.

told of her work and stressed the need for more volunteers; Mrs. John W. Chambers, who spoke on home nursing and told of the classes available; Mrs. Marie Holland, who gave a resume of the various services offered by the Red Cross; Mrs. Louise Windle, of the home service division, who spoke of her work which at present is chiefly among families of service men and women.

Sgt. William F. Widman, son of Mrs. Bernice Widman, Morrisville, was killed in France on September 17, according to an announcement from the War Department. No further details were given.

Sgt. Widman was stationed in Ireland for eight months before moving to France in July of this year. Inducted into the service on November 9, 1942, he received training at Fort McClellan, Ala., Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and Camp Forrest, Tenn. Before leaving for duty with the army, he was an employee of the Switlik Parachute Company, Trenton.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by a sister, Mary C., and a grandfather, Charles F. Widman.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, residing near Plumsteadville, has received a telegram from the War Department, announcing their son, Pfc. James Everett Snyder, aged 21, had been killed in action on September 24th.

The parents believe Snyder was killed in Italy, where he served with an infantry unit with General Mark Clark's Fifth Army.

Inducted on February 11, 1943, Snyder, who before entering the service was employed by the Hindman brothers, Doylestown roofers, received his training at Camp Howze, Texas, and Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

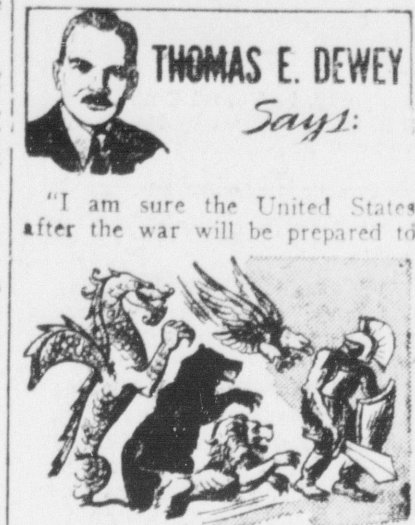

The young man left for foreign service in November, 1943, and for a time served in North Africa, from which place he was transferred to Italy the forepart of this year.
